In 1900, the Duke and Duchess of York (later King George and Queen Mary) opened a new infirmary at the orphanage.

During the visit, the Duke announced that Queen Victoria had graciously granted the prefix "Royal" to the Orphanage which then became known as "The Royal Orphanage of Wolverhampton".

Gualland Singular and an in the second of many finding and the

The Royal Orphanage Wolverhampton received a Royal Warrant proclaiming its right to have "Royal" in its name and with its accompanying coat of arms.

It can be seen in the foyer of the main entrance to the Senior

School.

The impressive bust of Queen Victoria has occupied several places in the Senior School building. It was originally placed in Queen Victoria Hall, and then moved to just inside the door of the main entrance to the Senior School, near the Royal Warrant. It is now back in the Hall after whom it was named.

The plaque opposite refers to the Royal Orphanage, founded in 1850 and is on the façade pf the Senior School building.

When the Duke and Duchess of York (afterwards King George V and Queen Mary) visited Wolverhampton, 1900, the citizens of the town knew how to celebrate, as evidenced by these photographs.

Darlington Street from the top of Victoria Street

Market Street looking towards
Garrick Street

Darlington Street from Queen's Square

Looking up Darlington Street towards Queen's Square

Lichfield Street towards the bus station. Not far from where the Orphanage started

Snow Hill looking down Temple Street